DEADLY ACCIDENT.—On Thursday, September 2, a terrible accident occurred at the near the Twelve-Mile mark on the farm of Mr. Green, by which Mr. E. King was instantly killed. The informant states that Mr. King was threshing in for Mr. Green, assisted by his eldest son, Milton, and a hired man, and while attempting to make a turn of running gear, the threshing machine, at the fly-wheel, being on the windward side of the house, the lapel of his coat was blown into and instantly caught by the fly-wheel, which wound it up and drew the unfortunate man into the thrasher, by which he was carried around and dashed violently against other portions of the machine, breaking his arm and one leg, crushing his skull, and breaking his instantly. The whole affair was so sudden and instantaneous that the unfortunate man had not more than time, when he was caught, to simply make an exclamation, which attracted the attention of the men who were driving, upon which he stopped the horses and rushed to the rescue of his employed man.

efforts were of no further service than to extricate the body of poor King, and even in order to do this, as every bit of clothing had to be torn off the mangled body.

THE ELECTIONS.—The returns so far received indicate that the entire State Democratic ticket is elected, and that A. A. and John C. Johnson will be elected to the middle district is in doubt, the probabilities being in favour of Higby. The Assembly is largely Democratic, and a Democratic Senator will be elected to succeed Mr. Johnson. The State Senator now have a small Union majority, but one chamber cannot prevail the election of a Federal Senator now it could before the passage of the Congressional Act relative to Senators.

THE SENATE.—The State Senate consists of forty members, one-half elected at each general State election. Of those who hold over the following are re-elected: H. H. Demorest, W. H. Shaw, George Pearce, Oliver Woodcott, James Johnson, and W. B. Adams. The Democrats have elected Messrs. Wadsworth, leaving four United Union Senators holding over. The Democrats have no doubt elected a Senator in the Anglo district, and Messrs. Crispin, a third in Tuolumne, a fourth in Tehama and Colusa, another in the Yuba district, three more in San Francisco, one in Napa, and possibly one each in the remainder of the State.

unbond, and Sacramento districts. With all those there would be a Democratic majority of two; if only the county chooses a Unionist there will be a tie; and the probabilities lead us to expect a small Union majority, which will aid the Unionist in the black. MARAQUE OF FOUR MEN.—The following, from a private source, gives a full account of the recent slaughter of four men in the Sacramento Mining district, a territory, by the W. W. P. Indians, about thirty-five miles from Hardyville, California. Mr. Willing and James H. Stimpson, who are representatives of the Specie Basis Mining Company, which was incorporated in Philadelphia early in the year, were returning from a business trip, accompanied by the company near Fresno. Mr. Stimpson, who possessed a private interest in some mines in the Sacramento district, expressed a desire to visit the hostile Indians. In spite of the remonstrances of Mr. Willing, Mr. Stimpson took eight men of the militia party, and when within one day's march of Hardyville made a detour to the north to destroy the mines of the above-named band of Indians. Mr. Willing meanwhile pursued his way to Hardyville. Early in the morning of the next day Stimpson's party came on a rancheria, from which they captured three trucks. They did not kill any Indians, but contented themselves with the destruction of the arms and utensils belonging to the Indians. Proceeding on their journey, while surmounting a slight eminence, they were fired at, and three of them were instantly killed. The survivors immediately retreated, and although they were well armed, they made no show of fight, but struck a speedy trail for camp.

which was distant thirty-five miles. They reached it by night. At the start Alton hung on to the last of the pack, but after the last of the pack, he turned around and abandoned his comrade to a horrible fate. He poor man was afterwards found with his brains beaten out by a rock. As soon as the news reached the Major, Lieutenant Hason, Eighth U. S. Cavalry, was ordered out with a detachment of twenty men to recover the bodies, and give them decent interment. Taking five days' rations, he proceeded to the scene of the slaughter. He found the bodies of the men in an advanced state of decomposition. They were completely denuded of clothing, and their arms and equipments had been stolen. Stimpson had about $200 dollars in coin on his person. Lieutenant Hason took the body of the man and the money. Mr. Stimpson's body was brought to Hardy-

—The following are the titles of papers from the capital of this republic with dates to the last of September from which we compile the following summary:—The President, having taken into consideration the petition sent to the Government, asking for the establishment of a National Bank, and being fully persuaded that the concession made to the Marquis de Tilly, on the 17th September, 1864, for the establishment of a similar institution, has fallen through, owing to its not having been started within the time specified, he has decided to order the late disturbances were sentenced to death by a military council of war at San Pedro Sactepetque, and were executed at noon on the day following. The others of the same crew were sent by the council to 10 years' exile in the mountains of San Felipe. As we find nothing said of the principal ringleader—Cruz—we expect that enterprising individual managed to get away from the clutches of justice and probably he means to keep away—for a time at any rate.

Hockmeyer, Don Vicente Zebadina, Don Miguel Garcia Granades, Don Jose Maria Samayoa, Don Antonio and Don Andres de la Cruz, the necessary authority to form in the Republic of Guatemala a bank of issue, on the principle of limited liability. The bulletin issued by the Government, on the 25th August, contains full particulars of the late discussed project. It is a guarantee for the public, and contains establishment—and represents a complete restoration of tranquillity and public order in that particular section and throughout the whole country. The revolutionary proceedings, as far as we can make out from the published details, did not extend much after all. One or two killed, two or three more or less seriously wounded, and a good deal of waste damage, represents the sum total of the trouble.

SALVADOR.—Our dates from this republic are to the 1st of September. mentations. It looks quite as lively after resurrection it did before death.—The rainy season this year proved very regular in Salvador. For many days rain came down with unusual copiousness in the neighbourhood of the capital.—The Faro of the 2nd instant says that it was feared that in this month of October is ordinarily the wettest of the year, a tempest lasting many days was likely to come judging from the threatening aspect of the atmosphere.—Information brought in from the indigenous exporting departments indicates a very satisfactory prospect of a valuable export.—It is expected that the exportation of indigo this year from Salvador will doubtfully exceed that of last year.

"The epidemic made its reappearance and carried away many fresh victims. Later accounts tell of it had again almost entirely disappeared from all parts of the Republic. Foreign immigration continues to attract considerable attention in Nicaragua. The Government is quite taken up with the subject and is shewing a very creditable desire to extend every possible inducement to immigrants from foreign countries to come and settle. The subject is in every respect worthy the closest attention of the Government, and it is gratifying to see that the President of this Republic and his advisers are so true to the vast benefits Nicaragua would derive from an addition to its population of a large number of thrifty and industrious foreigners. It is an imperative necessity that Nicaragua should increase the population of her extensive territory in order to be able to defend herself against the 50,000 tribes every kind which her soil is capable of producing. With an area of 5000 square leagues and a population of 300,000 all told, her industry is necessarily contracted and her commerce limited. Immigration is therefore the best and indeed the only means of bettering the condition of this naturally

A FENIAN PICNIC AT CHICAGO.—The New York papers contain the following account of a picnic at Chicago:—The annual picnic of the Fenians took place on the 15th August, 1867, in the park at Chicago. It was attended by the Fenians of all the States, and by the military, naval, and civil authorities. The military organisations, and the attendance, and civilians to the number of 50,000 on the ground. General Spear, of Limestone fame, was present, and made a brief speech to the Fenians, and then retired. The Fenians were very much pleased with the speech, but unfortunately for the speakers the day it was resolved to celebrate Donnybrook. A fight occurred before the Fenians had got on the ground, and this was the signal for the Fenians to fight with the soldiers. The Fenians fought with the soldiers, and the soldiers fought, and civilians arrested the Fenians before the close of the day black eyes and faces were the rule. During one of the melees a Fenian was severely wounded in the head, and a Fenian was placed under arrest. During the evening a speech in the morning the Fenians

A HUMAN AMPHIBIAN.—A most strange tale, in the last number of "Land and Water," a description of a creature called "Nattator," a "Coccyzoid" under the title "Nattator," is told in Cremona. This man eats, drinks, dances, like a porpoise, and most marvellous, of all without letting his pipe out—breathes the water, in a huge and smooth motion, as if he were a fish, his motions can plainly seen. The difficulty of performing these tricks so as to avoid the water, so that the lungs are never moistened, the fatness which they produce is enormous. The "Nattator" swims in the water of the lake, but in twenty minutes it sinks to 1948, appears that his general health is excellent.

WARRING ROY LOON.—Rather an amusing scene was witnessed at the station of the Castlefin the other day to Strabane on some who, in returning again to the station, was almost in time to be too late. He hurried the gate at full speed, but it was too late. He had to wait until the passing train was increasing speed. With a face full of excitement as much authority as he was capable of commanding, he shouted to the guard at the top of his voice, "The Lord Lifford's coming!" It acted like magic, the obsequious guard instantly signalled, the slackened, the train stopped, moved back, its place by the platform to await his arrival. The Master of the castle, accompanied by his clerk, and with great composure took his third-class carriage. Then, putting his head to the window, he informed the obliging guard that the Lord Lifford was not here; he might now be obeyed.—Derry Standard.

DEADLY BOILER EXPLOSION.—A letter is dated says:—"A most distressing accident involving the loss of six lives, took place on evening, the 17th August, at a point north of the town of Midland, England, where a passenger train, consisting of five engines and four passenger coaches, was being hauled by a locomotive engine of the Midland Railway Company. The train was proceeding from London to Birmingham, and was about 10 miles from the latter city when the explosion occurred. The cause of the disaster was found to be a defect in the boiler of one of the engines, which had been in service for many years without undergoing a thorough examination. The explosion was so violent that the boiler was completely shattered, and the fragments were scattered over a large area. The passengers were thrown from their seats, and several were killed or seriously injured. The train was brought to a halt, and the survivors were rescued by the railway staff and local residents. The investigation is still ongoing, and it is hoped that the results will lead to improved safety measures for the railway system."

The Economist of August 31st thus comments on the state of the English market:

Cheap as money is, one who knows the market doubts that it is likely to be as cheap. The accumulation of gold in the hands of the few, the scarcity of good bulls, the want of energy in the trading community, are all the reasons. How long it will continue to be so no man will prophesy. The depression consequent on lasted till the autumn of 1853; but the depression followed upon 1857 was less severe, much shorter, and only lasted till the autumn of 1860, after which for some months money was very dear again, but in both these cases there were depression, hunger, and in the case of 1857 to make it short. Before the proper depression consequent upon the panic of 1846 had spent itself, the gold discoveries in California and Australia helped to cause another. In 1860, by a series of blunders, Bank of Sweden ran down its reserve to a very low point, then, by sudden and irregular efforts to augment it, raised it again, both in 1861 and here, so that neither of them is an exact precedent for what we have to expect. The panic of 1866 was, too, certainly more keen than that of 1857, and has left severer traces. As compared with 1866 was probably less severe on the mercantile classes and the number of strictly mercantile failures was much greater than in the corresponding periods. On the other hand, in 1866 the pressure on the banking classes has been very much greater, and the peculiar credit malady of the time has acted principally on those whose trade and life is in their credit, just as it has in the case of the present. We cannot undertake to prophesy in detail for our readers, but we think no careful person can remember the time when the bullion in the Bank is now £23,575,000, without feeling sure that money is likely to be cheap for six months at least. After that we must try to spell out each

The Home News thus comments on the trade between Great Britain and Australia, as shown by the latest returns of the Board of Trade:

The last tables published by the Board of Trade give an account of the imports and exports from and to Australia for the six months of the present and the two preceding years. The figures are as follows:

	1890-91	1889-90	1888-89
Imports	£1,000,000	£1,000,000	£1,000,000
Exports	£1,000,000	£1,000,000	£1,000,000

These figures show that the trade between Great Britain and Australia is increasing rapidly, and that the value of the exports is nearly equal to the value of the imports.

Imports from	£7,360,634	£6,294,618	£4,241,000
Exports to	4,266,564	6,768,653	5,611,000
Total	£11,626,599	£12,993,271	£9,852,000

If we may regard 1886 as an exceptional year, which I fully was in the annals of British commerce and finance, we see that Australasian trade is in process of increasing, and that there is a large falling off in 1867 compared with directions, in order to obtain the means of meeting engagements, and the result was that the balance of payments, which had been rendered doubly onerous by the long continuance of the 10 per cent. rate of discount; hence the comparatively large excess of exports. As to the imports they continue to be a substantial proportion of the price of these commodities, and the increase since 1952 has been less than 10 per cent. of the total.

New Zealand has some cause to complain of the modus vivendi the accounts are made up. A large portion of the Australian payments to this country consist of gold; but the accounts now show much of this gold proceeds from the rapidly developing New Zealand. This is a manifest injustice, which will be

These figures establish a degree of progress in industrial and commercial energy that is highly creditable to the praise of New Zealand; and we are satisfied that it is calculated to attract population to a country endowed by nature with elements of wealth and contentment. In estimating that for the first six months of 1867, it must be remembered that the enlargement that it exhibits has been effected in a small British trade generally has been in a state of almost
